1. As noted by the attorney in a telephone call on November 12, 2004, the non-final action sent out October 15, 2004 inadvertently had the wrong action in it. I.e., the action was to another case-- 10/025,487—and hence applicant's response of August 27, 2004 was never properly addressed. An abandonment was also inadvertently mailed out October 30, 2006. In order to correct this situation, an interview summary record accompanies this action relating the discussion of November 12, 2004. As indicated to the attorney, prosecution of the application will now be re-opened.

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

I. Claims 34-37 and 39-47, drawn to a method of molding and curing tires, classified in class 264, subclass 326.

II. Claims 48-66, drawn to an apparatus for molding and curing tires, classified in class 425, subclass 44.

The inventions are independent or distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions I and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used to practice other and materially different methods such as those wherein the passage of a working fluid at a lower pressure is not employed prior to the expanding step using a fluid under pressure—ie, the apparatus can be used in methods in which no working fluid is used and indeed in retreading processes and bladder molding processes.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Art Unit: 1732

3. Comments directed to the amendment of August 27, 2004 will be held in abeyance pending an election.
